

LEREOY OLIVER DIES OF BLOW OVER HEART

Irregularity Operating
Newark Army Base
May Be Aired Soon

WASHINGTON—An army scandal about which the public has heard little is ready to pop soon from the hands of South Carolina's Angus McSwain, tireless chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Without saying much about it, McSwain has been plugging away at an investigation of the Newark (N. J.) Army Base leased to the Mersur Corporation on a cost-plus basis. The Government was supposed to get the major profits after the company had paid expenses, but it somehow happened that the expenses ran up so high that profits were almost nil.

McSwain has now dug up evidence showing where some of the revenue went. A group of Army officers supervising the lease charged to "expense" such things as World's Series baseball games, extra tickets and airplane junkets. In one case World's Series tickets cost $500. The total bill which the Government unwittingly footed was $10,000.

Incidentally, McSwain's investigation cost only about $400, in return for which he thinks he will recover about $135,000 for the government.

Artist President

Artists who see a chance for personal publicity have attempted to make a field day of the special Mother's Day stamp issue by Postmaster-General Jim Farley.

They say it lacks artistry, each new painter adding his word in order to get his name in the papers. But what they don't know is this:

Postmaster-General Farley and his department aides, whom they blame for the stamp, were not responsible for it at all. Farley conceived the idea, had some of his stamp artists work on a drawing for it, but they couldn't seem to get anything that would click.

No one could think of a picture that was appropriate, so they took it over to the President. He grinned, took the drawing-board and the partially completed drawing and said:

Family Trouble

Not all the Blue Eagle's critics are by any means outside its organization. There is much muttering going on within the family circle.

Particularly are the younger executives disgruntled. Chief among their grievances is the complaint that the NRA is loaded down with so much pettifogging red-tape that they are unable to get to General Johnson directly.

Intimation of this feeling reached the explosive ex-cavalryman recently, and he moved to bring the matter into the open.

He summoned a staff meeting of administrators, and other executives in his office. When they assembled, he gave them a typical Johnsonian stare and barked:

"I'm told that some of you are bellyaching that you can't get in to see me. Who couldn't get in to see me? Speak up!"

Dead silence. Not a word from anyone.

There were plenty there who had shuffled up and down the corridor in front of his office protesting their inability to get in. But Johnson's top-sergent tactics averted them.

The General snorted in disgust. "Now get this," he said, standing at the crowded room with his forefinger. "I'm here to see anybody on anything. Anytime any of you have anything to say

Motor Trouble After Atlantic Trip Causes Frenchmen to Quit

CALIFORNIA GOAL

Fought Fog Banks Off New England Thru Day

NEW YORK, May 28.—Defeated in their plans for a record breaking non-stop flight to California, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, French airmen, arrived here this afternoon from Paris.

They landed their five year old monoplane, "Joseph LeBrix" at Floyd Bennett airport at 1:40 p. m. eastern standard time. Mechanical difficulties arising after they had successfully bridged the ocean—the fifth such flight from east to west—prevented Codos and Rossi from carrying out their plans to set a new distance record by proceeding non-stop to San Diego, Calif., a span of 6,100 miles.

HELD RECORD

In spite of their failure to better their present long distance non-stop record, which Codos and Rossi themselves established in a flight from New York to Rayak, Syria, they achieved what was done only once before—a flight without a stop from Paris to New York.

Attempting to establish a new world's long distance flying record, Codos and Rossi had San Diego, California, as their destination, a point 6,200 miles from Paris.

From New York the Frenchmen expected to proceed across the United States over the most direct route, flying just north of Dayton, O., Indianapolis, and St. Louis, and then southwesterly over the Trans-Continental and Western Air line route. This would take them over Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona to San Diego.

IF all went well, they would have reached their California destination by noon tomorrow.

LOGAN-CO TOWN HIT BY FLAMES

BELLE CENTER, May 28.—Investigation was being conducted here today to determine the cause of a fire which swept nine store-rooms owned by Levi Welch yesterday and resulted in damages estimated at $75,000.

The fire broke out about 10 a. m. yesterday and quickly spread beyond control of Belle Center fire-fighters who were handicapped by a low water supply. Firemen from Bellefontaine, Lakeview and Huntsville were called to aid in bringing the conflagration under control.

Among the establishments razed by the fire were the Belle Center postoffice, a general store, a restaurant, three barber shops, the American Legion Hall and the K. of P. lodge rooms.

POPPY DAY SALE AMOUNTS TO $115.25

Receipts of the Poppy sale conducted Saturday by the Auxiliary of Howard Hall post, American Legion, totaled $115.25, it was announced Monday. The sale was the greatest success of any in the last several years.

Sale of poppies brought $99.92 while The Herald presented $15.33 to the fund from the sale of a page of advertising concerning Poppy day.

The prizes for the sale of poppies went to Bobby Betts with James Elmore Denman second among Boy Scouts, while Gail Daughauer led the Girl Scouts with Betty Bach second.

MASSIE SUIT TRIAL OPENS

Many Attorneys in Case; Clifton-Fritz Defendants In $25,000 Action.

With a number of attorneys having leading parts in the case, trial of the suit of Willard Massie, Irons city, and J. E. Fritz, Portsmouth, was started before Judge J. W. Adkins Monday morning. Massie seeks $25,000 for the death of his wife who died after a several-car automobile crash north of this city.

Automobile include Rom Johnson, Don Hopkins, and C. A. Leist for Massie, Charles Gerhardt, and Paul Gingham for Clifton, and Eyrone E. Ford of Vorys, Seymour, Sater, and Pease representing Fritz.

The Voire dire system was being used to obtain the jury during the early court session.

Witnesses include Charles W. Hegler, Orville Ward and Dr. E. R. Eales for Massie, Arley Hartley and Abe Greenlee for Clifton and Bryan Custer, William Caldwell, John Fossnaugh and Sam Caldwell for Fritz.

The jury was completed, opening statements made and the jurors were taken to the scene of the fatal wreck before the noon recess.

They returned at 1:30 p. m. to resume deliberations. Members of the jury are Percy May, Frank Brown, William Reid, Orrin Updyke, E. E. Dountz, L. T. Dick, George Stealy, Lafe Landman, John Clarridge, Mrs. Laura Bentley, Marvin Rhoades, and Mrs. Ann Thornton.

RILEY ASKS $5,000

John Riley, of Chillicothe, formerly of this city, filed an answer and cross petition in common pleas court, Monday, against the $50,000 damage action of Dr. I. Lenard Levin, of Lorain. Riley in his cross petition asks $5,000 personal damages.

He also filed an answer denying allegations of Mrs. Levin who sued for $5,000.

Riley bases his cross petition on a city ordinance against excessive speed and overloading automobiles. Levin's action followed a wreck on S. Court-st.

Adkins and Adkins and William D. Radcliff represent Riley.

"State Will Not Compromise With Element," Governor Declares

FEAR NEW STRIKES

Inquest Held as Two Slain Men Are Buried

COLUMBUS, May 28.—While expressing the belief that the strike conditions at Toledo are rounding into such shape as will permit the withdrawal of national guard troops at an early date, Governor George White today served warning that the state "will not compromise" with these elements "that have seized upon the labor trouble as a pretext to further their own propaganda and violent intentions."

CITES PROPAGANDA

Placing the responsibility for the strike riots, Governor White declared that "persons who hold the law in utter disregard and who do not have the interests of America at heart, have seized upon the labor trouble as a pretext to further their own propaganda and violent intentions."

Temporary peace prevailed over the riot scarred zone of the Electric Auto Life Co. Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for the American Civil Liberties union, arrived in Toledo today from New York and immediately went into conference with strike leaders.

Tension meanwhile gripped the strike-torn area where in the past five days two persons have been killed and many injured. Nearly 1000 national guardsmen patrolled the district, armed to the teeth and ready for any emergency.

Talk of a general strike was in the air.

89 VOTE STRIKE

Otto Brach, secretary of the Toledo Central Labor Union, said that 89 of the 103 local unions already have voted favorably on a general strike.

Action was being held in check however by the peace negotiations instituted by Charles P. Taft, head of the Federal Mediation board, who reported "substantial progress" in his efforts to bring the executive committee of the strikers and officials of the company together for the purpose of settling the trouble.

The tension in Toledo was accentuated by the funerals this morning of the two victims of the rioting, Frank Hubay, 27, and Steve

DUNKIRK GROCER, 62, KILLED BY GUNMAN

KENTON, May 28.—Police today were looking for a quick-trigger hold-up man who shot and fatally wounded L. W. Bean, 62-year-old Dunkirk grocer early yesterday morning.

The highwayman shot his victim in the abdomen after Bean had drawn a revolver and fired into the air in an attempt to scare his assailant. Bean died in a hospital here several hours later.

The robber fled without obtaining any loot. Bean was carrying more than $100 at the time he was accosted by the holdup man.

FRANK GORDON PASSES AWAY

Former Superintendent of Forest Cemetery Expires At Home Sunday.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating, for Frank S. Gordon, aged 72, former superintendent of Forest cemetery, who died at his home, 434 E. Franklin-st., Sunday at 10 p. m.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery by C. E. Hill, Williamsport.

Mr. Gordon's death was caused by complications. He had suffered from asthma for several years.

The deceased was born in New Holland Jan. 7, 1862, a son of Ransom and Sarah Bowdell Gordon. He was twice married, first to Lillie Eycok, who preceded him in death, and Julia Cook, who survives him.

Mr. Gordon was a member of Trinity Lutheran church and of the Lutheran Brotherhood. He was a director of the Forest cemetery association at the time of his death.

3 DIE IN CRASH

SELINGROVE, Pa., May 28.—An airplane pleasure ride that ended in tragedy left in its wake today three charred victims.

They were: Allen J. Snyder, 28, pilot of the plane; athletic coach at Middletown high school, and two of his star athletes, Carl E. Walters, 17, son of Mrs. Verna Walters, of Middletown, and George A. Erdley, Jr., 17, son of former State Representative and Mrs. George A. Erdley, of Globe Mills.

The plane went into a tail spin yesterday afternoon, crashed and burst into flames.

Truck Enroute To Cincinnati With 1,000 Cow-Hides Destroyed By Fire.

Cow-hides valued at $2,200 were destroyed Saturday afternoon when the truck driven by Otis Herron and James Bishop, Cincinnati, caught fire on the Lancaster-pk near the Turney Leist residence.

The truck was completely burned by the flames. There were 1,000 hides in the load.

The men in the truck were unaware it was on fire until a passing motorist told them. Both jumped from the cab while the truck was traveling at 35 miles an hour. One suffered minor injuries.

The truck struck a culvert and stopped, and in only a moment was enveloped in flames.

The men were driving toward Cincinnati from Pittsburgh.

The fire department was called to W. Mound-st. at 8:15 p. m. Saturday when the model T Ford used by the Charles Smith meat market for a delivery truck caught on fire.

BALL PITCHER KILLED RUNNING TO 2ND BASE

Funeral Services for Popular Container Corporation Player Tuesday Afternoon; Fatal Accident Comes During Heat of Ball Game; Ball Thrown by Columbus Athlete Fatal.

Leroy 'Bud' Oliver, aged 23, popular recreation ball player, was killed at 2:20 p. m. Sunday when he was struck over the heart by a ball thrown during a game on the Southern Ohio Electric Co. field.

It is believed Oliver, pitcher for the Container Corporation of America team, died within a few minutes after he collapsed to the ground. He never regained consciousness.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Church of Christ in Christian Union with Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by the Albaugh Co. with members of the Ohio National guard as pall bearers. The body is now at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Schieler, 620 S. Pickaway-st.

RUNNING TO SECOND

The fatal accident happened at the height of the game in the last half of the third inning with Oliver's Container Corporation team leading the Columbus Golco. Oil Co. nine 1 to 0. Oliver had started the inning with a safe hit to left field. The next batter hit a ground ball to third base where Elmer Zang, prominent St. Mary's high school and University of Dayton athlete, was playing.

Zang picked up the bounding ball and threw it toward second base to force Oliver at that bag. The throw was bad and struck the runner over the heart before he reached the base. The ball of the ribbed ball against his body could be heard on the W. Mound-st. base.

The ball bounded into left field and the ill-fated youth over-ran the bag, some claim, then returned to the base where he stood possibly two or three seconds before he collapsed. Some believe he was dead when he struck the ground. The Columbus players, who seemed cool under the circumstances, tried to return him to consciousness, believing his breath had been knocked out when he was hit. In a short time Dr. Lloyd Jones was called and a pulmotor was brought to the field from the electric company plant.

The Albaugh Co. ambulance then arrived and the youth was taken to Berger hospital. Two Columbus players rode in the ambulance with him still trying to restore consciousness. He was pronounced dead as soon as he was taken into the hospital.

CHANDLER FIGHTS OFFICER, JAILED

Auto Thief Ordered Arrested As Parole Violator Puts Up Fight, Sunday.

Ted Chandler, 27, paroled from the Ohio penitentiary where he served time for stealing the automobile of Max Friedman, E. Mill-st., will be returned to that institution following his arrest, early Sunday.

Chandler was ordered arrested as a parole violator by his parole officer.

Local officers went to the home of his sister in the north end after midnight Saturday and found him there. Chandler played drunk and after a few minutes in custody bolted for freedom. Officer William McCrady started after him and caught him when Chandler fell down in the street, bruising his head.

The fugitive and the officer tangled for a moment until Sheriff Charles Radcliff arrived, and the man was overcome. Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell and Officer Fred Fitzpatrick also took part in the arrest.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

WOMEN like to get compliments. I reckon every love-lorn department and advice to husbands column has told you that. But that ain't all. They're bound to get compliments. If a woman's husband won't say nice things to her, why she'll generally manage to make somebody say them.

But there was a woman that was so hungry for a compliment that she just naturally stole one from her husband. He was saying all sorts of wise things in company, and telling about what was the cause of this and that. So finally he says, "It's notorious that dumb men grab off all the prettiest women."

His wife blushed real prettily and said, "Why, you old flatterer, you are always saying nice things about me that way."

Where Does Your Advertising Go—To Buyers or To Ash Cans?

You give Air Mail Special Delivery preference over all other mail, not because of the "carrier investment" involved, for you, the recipient, pay nothing for it, but because its manner of delivery has convinced you of the importance of its contents.

You know that the sender of the message has gone to greater expense than ordinary mail requires. It has your immediate reader-attention. The same as advertising in the newspaper is given preference over all forms of ordinary printed matter. It convinces people who make worthwhile customers that YOU, as the merchant, believe sufficiently in your goods and services to select the medium preferred by everyone.

And it is doubtful if many Pickaway County prospects ever call to complain to a merchant that they didn't get one of his store's lovely circulars. For they want their advertising messages where the "best stores" are advertised—in the newspaper! And not on an uninteresting piece of paper stuck in doors of automobiles, thrown on lawns and generously handed to every passer-by, just because they are "cheap."

6-POINT PLAN IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 28.—A six-point major legislative program was laid down by administration leaders today in the hope of adjourning congress by June 9.

The program consisted of the president's reciprocal tariff bill, new silver remonetization bill, the Wagner labor disputes bill, the new stock market measure, the administration's loans to industry bill and the billion-dollar relief appropriation. All other measures, if controversial, apparently will be abandoned.

The leaders indicated the president desires congress to adjourn before the foreign debt installments fall due June 15. With all the house and a third of the senate facing elections this fall, most of the members also want to go home.

The new tariff act, giving the president power to slash import duties as an incentive to the negotiation of trade expansion agreements with foreign governments, was scheduled to pass the senate this week.

The new silver bill is next on the program. It has the president's endorsement and will start through the house this week.

The Wagner labor dispute bill has the almost unanimous approval of the senate commerce committee.

The stock market bill was in final form, after senate and house conferees agreed on a compromise. This conference report will be adopted this week by both house and senate, as the final steps in its enactment. The bill would create an independent commission to regulate the various securities exchanges throughout the country.

Sunday School Program Good

P. 2 ASHVILLE

ASHVILLE, May 28.—The annual Harrison-twop Sunday school convention was held in the Asheville U. B. church Sunday evening, and was fairly well attended.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President Harry Speakman, superintendent South Bloomfield Sunday school; vice president, C. C. Cloud and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Grace Reid.

Wayne Jinks, superintendent of the Asheville U. B. school, as president of the association opened the meeting and the U. B. orchestra rendered several appropriate selections followed by a hymn by the congregation.

In the absence of Rev. Paul Scott, South Bloomfield pastor, Rev. T. H. Ricketts had charge of the devotional period which consisted of scripture reading with interesting and wholesome comment.

A duet by two ladies of the South Bloomfield school, with piano accompaniment was well received.

An address "The Youth's Need" by H. W. Plum of Circleville, struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all listeners. The speaker primarily stressed the need of a church program that would appeal to and interest the young. He considers music as one of the main features. Organized a large choir and orchestra if possible and you will have a magnet that will draw and hold the youngsters. Once you enlist them the church's duty is to guard their interests carefully and advance them step by step into places of responsibility.

The Asheville M. E. choir rendered a very beautiful and appropriate selection, after which the offering was taken.

The main speaker of the evening was J. E. Newell, of Columbus, a school superintendent in the Hilltop district in the Capitol City. His remarks were along educational as well as religious activities. As a teacher he is faced many times with conditions regarding pupils which should have been corrected by parents years ago. Quoting a learned Chicago educator he said "We Have Learned Nothing until Our Behavior is Changed." If you are a professed religious worker and have a Sunday code of action that does not click in with your week day program your influence will not be far reaching. The young are close observers; and expect us to practice what we preach. The address was just the kind to arouse church workers to renewed action.

Rearming in the Air

GLANCE at export figures relating to the exportation of airplanes and airplane parts made available in Washington leaves little doubt of the truthfulness of the charge that Germany is rearming in the air.

The figures are contained in the monthly reports of the department of commerce. According to these, during January, 1933, shortly before Hitler came into power, the value of American airplane engines exported to Germany was $1,600. Parts and accessories totaling $10,943 in value also were sent over. For the same month last year, American manufacturers shipped 37 airplane engines, valued at $189,488, to Germany. In February of this year German purchases of engines have totaled $8, valued at $184,942. Figures for March, the latest available, showed 47 engines exported their value being $249,480.

German purchases during the first quarter of this year were greater than those of any other country. Russia stood second, its purchases totaling about one-third in value, of those made by Germany.

Germany is not dependent upon foreign countries for airplanes. It has a flourishing air industry itself, and it is to be supposed that its own plants have been turning out large numbers of machines for the government. Large purchases also have been made in England, these being the subject of a protest recently lodged in London by Paris.

The situation, no doubt, will be used by France to strengthen its reasons for refusing to give its consent to the rearming of Germany and as justifying its own military expenditures.

If all four sit in the driver's seat, that's friendship. If two prefer the rumble, that's love.

Dealing With the Public

GENERAL Johnson apparently has learned that censorship doesn't pay.

The recovery administrator has revoked orders which prohibited division administrators from dealing directly with the press. Instead of newspapers being dependent upon the administration's publicity bureau for official news relating to recovery affairs, information in the future will be available to them in divisional offices.

The new orders undoubtedly will prove beneficial to the recovery administration. They at least will serve to free it of the suspicion, caused by the censorship that important news was being withheld from the public.

The people at large are the ones vitally affected by the work of this branch of the government. They believe they are entitled to and should have full information concerning its policies and activities.

The three metals you can take to Washington and turn into cash are gold, silver and brass.

The one objection to being regarded as a great thinker is that you have to be dead too long.

A philanthropist is one whose generosity is praised because he left what he couldn't take with him.

While planning to let millions of men work for the government, we should be careful not to omit the word "for."

When the government quits coining gold, you can get it only in bars. But being rich only in bars isn't anything new.

General Johnson soon may have to call on that California scientist, who brought a dead dog back to life, to work on his pet bird, the Blue Eagle.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

"I was sure I was done with love, I thought when Drew left me that I could never feel anything again. That something in me had been killed, completely destroyed. Yet, just a few months later I found this wasn't so. I found I still could love—so I married John Harmon. Now, I feel that I have put Drew completely out of my life, that he could never mean anything to me again. But am I right, Perry? I don't know. I might believe I want to know. It might be too devastating. If I ever felt that way about Drew Armistead, again, Perry, I should hate myself, hate myself so utterly that I don't believe I could go on living!"

"You're very young, Stanley, and you think about things too much. Let them get too close to you. Don't do it, my dear. What happened to you was really very simple; it's only in your own precious little analytical mind that it becomes so important. Try to look at it like this, Stanley—you met Drew and fell in love with him. You'd never been in love before—Drew is essentially the erotic type. It's nothing he's to blame for exactly, nothing he can help. Elinor Glyn would call it something still Huxley would call it something still different. But call it what you like, there it is. What happened to you has happened to thousands of other girls—sometimes they marry the man and more often they don't. I rather imagine that more often they do exactly what you have done—marry someone quite different. And then they do what you, obviously, haven't done—they forget about it. Or if they remember, they don't let it hurt them. You mustn't, Stanley. It isn't fair to you; it certainly isn't fair to your husband."

Stanley stared at him in the firelight, her eyes gravely intent on what he was saying to her, slightly puzzled. When she spoke it was of him, rather than of what he had just said, "You've changed, Perry, grown up, some way. It suits you, I think. I like you very much this way."

Perry shrugged. "I hope you liked what I just said to you—and will remember it."

"I will, Perry. I know you're right. But that way, it sounds very simple. I almost wish I had let you come before. I suppose I have been rather a fool to refuse to face things. You'll come often, won't you, Perry?"

"As often as you'll let me. But it mustn't stop there—you must promise to go about again, to stop hiding away here by yourself."

"But we haven't much money, you know. We'll have to live quietly for a while, anyhow."

"Well, at any rate, you'll let me return your hospitality, won't you? And if I drink tea here every other day—that's four times a week—" see I've always been a little, and at times a lot, in love with my wife. I suppose I still am."

"Yes, I know," John Harmon answered him quickly, running his fingers through his rumpled, brown hair, meeting the other's smile directly with his intent, eager brown eyes. "It's very easy to love Stanley—it would be very hard not to, don't you think? I hope you'll come here often. I'm afraid we need friends rather badly."

"What we really need," interrupted Stanley, "is a cup of tea. And now that you have fully agreed to like each other and love me, I don't see why we shouldn't have it!"

Both men laughed and John Harmon brought the kettle of boiling water and Stanley poured it over the tea in the pewter teapot.

An hour later, they were still sitting there—the muffins and honey had disappeared, the teacups were empty, the fire had burned low—but there were still cigarettes and candlelight and much to talk about.

Then Perry remembered a dinner engagement and sprang up hastily. "But I'm coming back and I'm going to bring Nigel Stern. You don't mind, do you Stanley? He could help John no end—knows all about the literary game—and has a particular penchant for authors."

"No, I don't mind—I like him," Stanley said Thursday, then?

"By all means, and it's been great having you here, Deverest!" John Harmon was honestly enthusiastic.

"It's been great being here! Until Thursday then—"

John Harmon closed the door and turned back to Stanley. "He's a splendid fellow, Stan. It's going to be fun—knowing him."

"I'm glad you liked him, dear," Stanley said, "It's not only that I like him, he's going to mean a lot to me."

"I hope so, John Harmon."

"You did it for me, didn't you, Stanley?"

"Yes."

"Did you mind—so very much?"

"No."

He came quite close to her, tipped her face up with his hand, looked deep into her eyes. "That other fellow, darling, do you still want him—so much?"

"You know I don't, John Harmon." Soft her voice was, a blurred little whisper. Soft her eyes were too, and drenched with sudden tenderness.

He picked her up abruptly and carried her to the wing chair and held her close in his arms until both the fire and the candles burned out.

"You're very happy, aren't you, John Harmon?"

Her husband was shrugging into his coat, adjusting his cuffs. He was whistling all through his bath, he was still whistling.

"Well, rather. Why not? Things have been breaking mighty nice for us, Stan. I've sold five stories in one short month and the book is fairly writing itself, it's leaping along at a great rate, we're several hundred ahead in cold cash, and I shiver to think what we can count on when it's finished. I'm bursting into print on the front cover this next issue, Stan. Not so bad for a hick writer, what?"

"I know, dear. I'm awfully proud of you, not only of what you've done, but of you, for you are nice, you know. People like you just as well as they do your stories. If you weren't beyond that sort of thing, I'd be afraid they'd spoil you. I couldn't bear that!"

John Harmon threw back his head and laughed. "You're imagining things, Stanley. They're just decent and friendly and they give us a darn good time—don't they, dearest?"

"Yes," admitted Stanley giving her nose a careful touch of powder, "yes, it's been fun stepping out again—but I'm not sure I like sharing you so much. We're never at home any more, except when you're working. I miss our—good times together."

John Harmon laid down a hairbrush abruptly. His voice when he answered was steady and curiously vibrant. "Say the word and I'll telephone Nigel we can't be there tonight, or we won't bother to telephone—he'll never miss us. We'll stay home and talk. I want to read you that last chapter, anyway—what do you say, shall we?"

"Of course not, stupid!" Stanley reached for a nail buffer. "Nigel would miss you and you know you'd miss him—you'll get at least a thousand words out of one evening with him. But it's sweet of you to offer and I know you really mean it, that's what matters."

"Why shouldn't I mean it? I got a lot of kick out of those people, a lot of ideas and atmosphere; but aside from Perry they don't mean a thing to me, while you, dearest—"

"He came across to her and laid his arms about her shoulders, laid his face lightly against hers, "I can't tell you what you mean to me, Stanley, I'm not even going to try."

"Don't," answered Stanley softly. "And let's go quickly, before we change our minds."

They found a rather larger crowd than usual at Nigel's. Perry was there, of course, and several of Stanley's old friends, who had accepted her return as casually as they had accepted her disappearance. Marcia Wingate was there and she waylaid Stanley early in the evening.

"I don't see how you have the nerve to accept all of Nigel's invitations and refuse all of mine. I think it's downright rude of you."

"The truth is, Marcia," Stanley told her frankly, "you're too high hat for us. We can come here in ordinary clothes because nobody cares, but a party at your house would be quite different. My husband's an author you know, and a very, very new one."

"But a very very clever one and so altogether charming. That shy, confused manner of his is perfectly delightful, and utterly unexpected. From his stories, one would expect to find him sophisticated and clever and frightfully self-possessed."

"Exactly. And all that about clothes is rubbish. I'll never stop asking you until you come."

"Have it your own way, Marcia. We'll love to come, when we can afford you!"

"Gingivitis" A Common Disorder

Authority Gives Some Facts About This Gum Inflammation

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

EVERYONE is familiar with the common name of Vincent's Angina. It is known to the public as "trench mouth". Health journals, magazines and newspapers have stressed the dangers of this disease. On the other hand, too little attention has been given to a simple inflammation of the gums known as "gingivitis".

Gingivitis is a rather common disorder. Usually, it can be traced to a failure to practice mouth hygiene. Continued neglect of gingivitis leads to serious infections and perhaps to chronic constitutional disorders.

The disease is accompanied by swollen and painful gums. At times, the pain may be so severe as to prevent needed sleep and rest. The gums are sensitive and bleed upon the slightest provocation. They bleed when the teeth are brushed.

"Halitosis," or bad breath, is indeed a disagreeable and repulsive condition. Those who suffer from it are anxious to get rid of the offensive breath, yet they often overlook gingivitis as the most probable cause. Bad breath, headache, digestive disturbances and various nervous symptoms can be traced to this unpleasant ailment.

Bear in mind that many germs are all the time found in the mouth and throat. Neglect of mouth hygiene leads to infection with these germs and absorption of poisonous substances. Permanent disabilities, such as neuritis, arthritis and neuralgia, are often traced to such infections of the mouth and throat.

Gingivitis is frequently seen in individuals who have poor health. It is commonly found in persons convalescing from serious disease. The lowered resistance prepares the way for the germs.

Daily care of the teeth and periodic visits to the dentist will help to insure strong and healthy gums. Regular brushing of the teeth and careful use of dental floss will remove food debris, prevent dental decay and inflammation of the gums. Many persons have sensitive gums and are extremely susceptible to tartar formation. They are likely to get gingivitis. These persons, I strongly recommend to make periodic visits to the dentist for special preventive treatment.

I cannot overstate the importance of a well balanced diet. This should contain an abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals, milk, butter, cream and eggs. These foods furnish the elements essential to strong teeth and healthy gums.

Bear in mind that besides a proper diet, an adequate supply of fresh air and sunshine will help prevent gingivitis. No person should ever become afflicted with this infection if he takes the proper precautions.

Answers to Health Queries

M. D. Q.—Of what nature is the disease known as endocarditis?

A.—This is an inflammation of the valves or lining of the heart.

J. F. M. Q.—I am troubled with cramps in my legs. What can I do for this?

A.—Cramps are usually due to poor circulation or undue exertion. Application of heat sometimes proves helpful.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The yearning for adventure that is latent in every human is given a thrilling expression in "Tarzan and His Mate," jungle film continuing the experiences of Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan in Darkest Africa. The new adventure thriller opened yesterday on the Cliftona Theatre.

Almost from the first scene there is a series of "punch" incidents to capture audience interest. Struggles between man and beast on land and in the water are blended into one of the most powerful dramas of conflict ever screened.

Under-Water Thrills
Weissmuller was photographed under water as he fights a crocodile to the death. Herds of elephants are shown charging a safari of several hundred natives. Man-eating lions attack white jungle explorers; herds of apes, Wunderbeests, zebras and other jungle beasts are shown in action.

AT THE GRAND
Six of Hollywood's ace comedians were cast by Warner Bros. for the rollicking comedy drama, "I've Got Your Number," at the Grand Theatre.

The list is headed by the vivacious Joan Blondell, who kept audiences roaring in "Convention City," "Havana Widows," "Foot-light Parade," "Lawyer Man," and other productions.

120 MILLIONS FOR ARMY HELP SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Declaring that the nation must be prepared to meet all foes, Rep. John L. McSwain (D) of South Carolina, chairman of the house military affairs committee, today announced he will seek $120,000,000 from the new public works fund to expand the army.

Most of the money would be spent in building the army air force to a new high point of efficiency.

Although congress enacted a law in 1926 providing for 1,800 effective fighting airplanes, the army only has 300 planes ready for combat against a modern foe, he said.

TESTS PROGRAM

His program would include: Construction of seven new army air bases, from which defense of continental United States could be directed.

Building of an adequate reserve supply of munitions for all branches.

Increase of enlisted personnel from 118,750 to 165,000 men.

While McSwain declined to reveal the location of the proposed army corps bases, it is understood that military experts favor three on the Atlantic coast, three on the Pacific and one in Alaska.

"I want to build the air corps to 1,800 effective fighting planes," he said. "We have only about 300 combat or fighting planes the rest are either antiquated, unfit or training planes."

The Thompson bill increasing the army to 165,000 men is favored partly as an unemployment relief measure, he said. In addition to 40,000 more enlisted men, 2,000 reserve officers would be called to duty.

KINGSTON

The Scout Troop attended the Court of Review at Adelphi on Monday evening, May 28, 1934.

Mrs. Josephine Brundage very pleasantly entertained her sewing club on Thursday evening. The guests were, Mrs. J. P. Gardner and her two sisters, Mrs. William Thayer and Mrs. Kitty Cunningham of Columbus, Mrs. Robert Brundage, Mrs. Egbert Freshour, Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. W. R. Sunderland and Misses Bernice Miller and Mildred Holderman.

Scout Troop No. 65, very pleasantly surprised James Baker on Saturday evening, at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Baker.

This was a farewell party as James left with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Baker for their home in Cincinnati on Sunday. Among the scouts enjoying this pleasant affair were Fred Masg, James and Frank Miller, Tom Ellis, Rayal and Bob Taylor. John and Bob Gearhart, Philip Strausbaugh, Tom Freshour, Wright, Sonny Reider and 15.

All met at the home and then repaired to Dunlap's and enjoyed a welter roast.

Scout Master L. E. Hill and Assistant Scout Master Hubert Hicks attended a training course which was held in Circleville on Thursday evening, May 24 at the Presbyterian church and one on Tuesday evening, May 22 at St. Paul's church in Chillicothe. Plans were explained for the Scout activities for this summer.

L. F. Hill left on Friday morning to spend the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill near Darbyville.

COUNTY STUDENTS IN ATHENS RITES

ATHENS, May 28.—To the campus of a university founded 130 years ago by a Yale graduate will come a dean of that institution, and one from its sister school, Harvard, to speak at the June Commencement on the Ohio University campus here June 3, 4.

The largest graduating class in the history of Ohio University will be its contribution to the celebration marking the 130th year of the school. Dr. Luther Allan Weigel, dean of the Divinity School, Yale University, will deliver the baccalaureate address in Memorial Auditorium Sunday, June 3, and Clinton Poston Biddle, professor of Investment Banking and associate dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, will present the Commencement address Monday morning. Dean Biddle is an alumnus of Ohio University.

Returning alumni and relatives of the 440 graduates will join in a full round of events Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The group of graduates who are to receive degrees and diplomas upon the completion of satisfactory work this semester includes Helen B. West of Circleville and Freda Mae Matthes and Esther Amelia Winfough of Derby, all of whom are to receive two year diplomas in special education.

Paul Eugene Matthes of Derby, one of Ohio University's outstanding engineering students, will receive the degree of bachelor of science in electrical engineering in June. The Derby senior had a perfect average of 18 hours straight "A" for the first semester this year.

ball game ended in a shocking fatal accident. Groups of fans remained at the field for nearly an hour after word came back from the hospital confirming the report that many feared.

POSTPONE GAMES

Recreation ball league officials announced Monday that in respect to the youth there would be no games in the league until after the funeral Tuesday.

That means the Monday and Tuesday games will be postponed. Leroy E. Oliver was born Aug. 18, 1910, in Frankfort, Ross co, a son of Lemuel and Alice Catherine Lytle Oliver. His father expired in 1919. He is survived by his mother, two sisters, Mrs. Roxey Schisler and Miss Mary Edith and a brother, Elmer at home.

He was a first duty sergeant in the motor transport branch of the Ohio National guard, having been in that organization for six years. He was also a member of the Improved Order of Red Men who will conduct a service at the grave.

OHIO PROSECUTORS TO STUDY PROBLEM

The prosecuting attorneys for Ohio's eighty-eight counties were invited to attend a conference by Attorney General John W. Bricker on June 4th and 5th at Columbus.

The Attorney General called attention to the many new and peculiar problems presented by the Ohio Industrial Recovery Act and the National Industrial Recovery Act in his letter of invitation. Much of the burden of enforcement is placed directly on the shoulders of the Attorney General and the Prosecuting Attorneys. The purpose of the conference will be to discuss methods of handling these cases and will provide an opportunity for the Attorney General and his assistants, W. Donald Hall and Oscar A. Brown to discuss with the Prosecutors the litigation arising under the Recovery Program.

The Ohio Recovery Administration, through Theodore H. Tange-man, Administrator and his Assistant, O. W. L. Coffin, joined General Bricker in his invitation to the Prosecuting Attorneys and will assist in conducting the various conferences. Federal District Attorneys and National Recovery Administration officials have been invited to participate in the belief that the persons charged with Code enforcement should be fully advised as to all the phases of the Recovery Legislation and the litigation which has taken place under it.

Already several code violations have been brought before the Common Pleas courts of Ohio. In every instance the constitutionality of the State and National Recovery Acts has been confirmed. The Ohio Recovery Administration now has on hand a large number of alleged violations which have been referred to it by the various code authorities who have requested court action to be instituted under the State Recovery Act.

A number of violations which had been directed to the National Recovery Administration have been referred back to the Ohio Recovery Administration for prosecution.

Cygon, 20, both of whom were spectators and strike sympathizers.

An inquest into the deaths of the two men was to be held this afternoon. The inquest will be open to city and county authorities, labor leaders, Auto Lites officials, military officers, labor leaders, civic workers and the press.

Taft, the federal mediator, planned to resume his negotiations with both sides in the controversy, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. As a result of Taft's efforts lengthy negotiations carried on in a downtown hotel lasted until 1:30 o'clock this morning.

After his conference with both elements, Taft issued a statement in which he said that after long negotiations, he found an attitude on both sides "which made it possible to discuss all problems in an atmosphere of much better feeling and of mutual understanding."

FIGURES DISCLOSE HANEFELD SAVING IN 'AG' OFFICES

COLUMBUS, May 28.—Huge savings effected in the state department of agriculture under Governor George White's economy policies are presented in a summary of expenditures for seven years just compiled by Earl Hanefeld, director in the White cabinet. Total expenditures have been reduced more than one half since 1927. Director Hanefeld reports.

In 1927 in the administration of Governor Vio. Donahue, with Charles V. Truax serving as director of agriculture, total expenditures were $1,152,542.63. In 1933 they reduced the figure to $583,959.12. In 1932 under Governor Myers Y. Cooper, with Perry L. Green as director, total expenditures mounted to $1,016,928.73 and in 1930, Cooper's last year in office, the total reached $980,177.50.

In 1931, Governor White's first year, this had been cut to $687,235.93 through orders given by the Governor to the late L. S. Guthrie, his first director. In 1932 Director Hanefeld slashed the total to $602,247.12. In 1933 the economy program cut off $117,271 more and the total fell to $484,976.

In effecting the decreases no essential service to farmers and others for whose benefit the department is operated has been discontinued. Typical of the reductions has been that in administrative costs. In 1932 under Governor Cooper expenditures for administration totaled $44,663.50. In Governor White's third year this was reduced to $26,414.42. Similar cuts have been made in the operation of the Ohio state fair and in other activities managed by the department.

NEWS!

Science reveals important new Facts for Smokers!

YOUR ENERGY VARIES DURING THE DAY

There's a "Lift" in CAMELS that drives away Fatigue and Irritability

Feel "all in"? Then's the best time to light a Camel.

It's cool and fragrant and delightful...but far more important than that, it brings your flow of energy up from the depths!

You feel fatigue vanish. Irritability seems to slip away. And you go back to work—or play—with the energy and cheerfulness that are naturally yours.

YOU'VE HAD THE EXPERIENCE...HERE'S THE EXPLANATION!

This experience is no news to Camel smokers. But the explanation is news—and good news—to everyone.

The "lift" you get from smoking Camels is simply a release of the natural latent energy in your body. In other words you have helped your body to help itself...easily, naturally, and without the slightest strain.

Remember this explanation when your energy curve is "down"...times when you're irritable and your brain just doesn't seem to work and you feel too tired to move. At such times... "Get a lift with a Camel!"

AND CAMELS NEVER JANGLE YOUR NERVES!

Camel fans smoke frequently—and they can—as often as they like. Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on the nerves.

Keep your flow of energy at a higher level with Camels.

Camel Smokers can verify these facts!

A famous New York research laboratory announces a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge of cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect"...a quick restoration of the flow of natural body energy...an experience well known to Camel smokers. When you smoke a Camel you feel an almost immediate relief from fatigue. What has actually happened is that you have released and made available the latent energy in your body. You've helped your body to help itself. During the day your energy curve hits certain low points. Camels raise your flow of energy...quickly, conveniently and without jangling your nerves.

TOO TIRED FOR FUN...and then she smoked a Camel!

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

KNOW THIS FEELING? The feeling of being too "all in" to respond to the gaiety of the crowd? No taste for the pleasure and fun of the sort of social evening that you would ordinarily look forward to? That's one of the many times to light a Camel, enjoying its rich flavor while your flow of natural, healthful energy is restored. You'll like Camels—a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos!

TIGERS WIN GOLF TITLE

Circleville high school won its first Central Buckeye league title in several years, Saturday, when the golf team knocked off the league honors over the Columbus Country course.

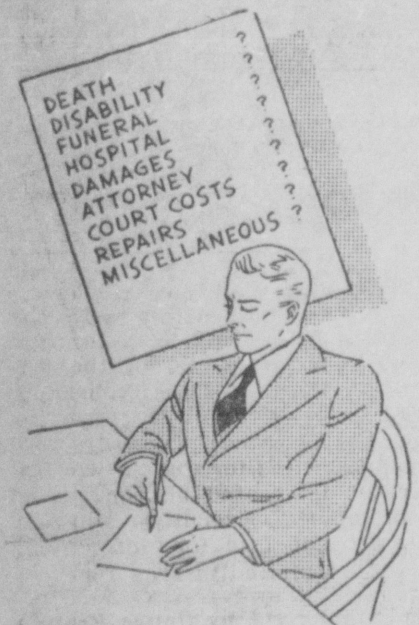

The other schools of the league finished in the following order: Grandview, Westerville, Bexley, and Delaware with Marysville not entering a team.

The score of the local team was 334 or 83 1-2 strokes for each of the four players. John Jenkins was low man in the tourney with 39-41 for 80 while Tink Hill, caddy-master at the Pickaway Country club, placed second with 42-40, 82. Bob Friece tied for third in all competition with 41-43, 84, while Joe Jenkins carded a pair of 44s for an 88 total.

The team scores were: Circleville, 334; Grandview, 358; Westerville, 373; Bexley, 376; Delaware, 396.

The last league title the local school annexed was when Carl Purcell, Merle Davis, Pete Stout, Dean White, Bill Hegele and Ned Thacher won the CBL cage title three years ago.

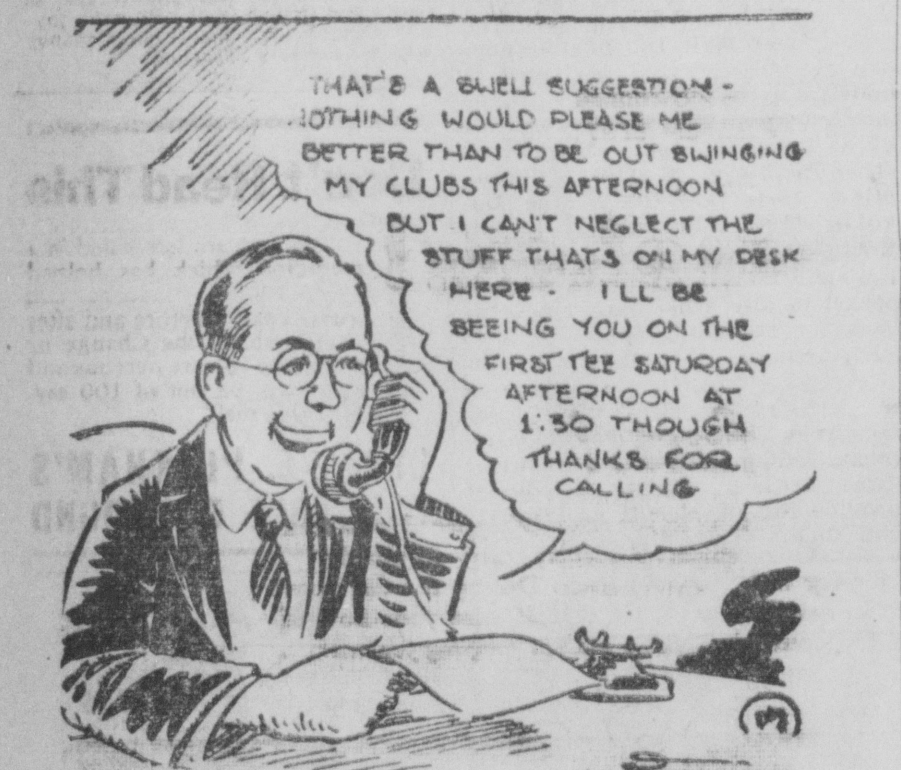

The four players who took part in the tourney over the Columbus course, Saturday, and Captain Lee Cook, will be awarded golf letters by the school.

Think of the costs. Automobile accidents cost each year more than new cars. Save that money and buy something you really want. Don't invest in tombstones.

BETTING ODDS SLIGHTLY FOR JIM McLARNIN

Fast 15-Round Battle Predicted Tonight; Milk Fund To Benefit From Gate.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Both Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight champion, and Barney Ross, lightweight titleholder, promised a fast battle in their 15-round bout tonight.

"I am going to carry the fight to Ross right from the start," McLarnin said, "and I don't intend to be outsmarted. If necessary, I can go at stop speed for fifteen rounds."

Ross said: "I'm sure I'll win the decision. I'm in great shape and expect to own the welterweight title as well as the lightweight championship. I'm not afraid of McLarnin's punching power."

GOES 15 ROUNDS

Length of bout-fifteen rounds, to a decision.

Title at stake-welterweight championship.

Scene of bout-Madison Square garden bowl, Long Island city.

Weight for bout-145 pounds at 12 noon.

Time of bout-10 p. m. (EDT).

Promoter-the Free Milk Fund for Babies, Inc., Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, chairman.

Division of gate receipts: 10 per cent to milk fund, McLarnin to receive 40 per cent of the 90 per cent; Ross, 25 per cent of 90 per cent.

Probable betting odds-6 to 5, McLarnin favored.

Estimated attendance-60,000.

Here are the predictions of various fighters and fight authorities on the outcome of the bout.

Jack Dempsey, former heavy-weight champion—McLarnin's punch should win the battle.

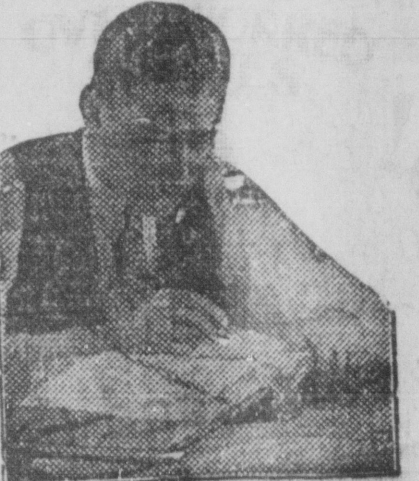

Jack Johnson, former heavy-weight champion—Ross is too fast for McLarnin.

Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion—Ross will outbox McLarnin.

Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion—Ross's speed will earn him the decision.

WHITE, TREGO BREAK BROAD JUMP RECORD

Individual Trophy Taken By Former For Wesleyan; Latter's Jump Better.

Pickaway-co youths again were leading features of track meets in which they took part last Saturday. They were Howard White and Ellsworth 'Red' Trego.

White performing for Ohio Wesleyan's team broke a Buckeye Athletic association record in the broad jump when he leaped 22 feet 11 1-4 inches to take the place formerly held by Steinhauer of Miami in 1931 with a jump of 22 feet 11 inches.

White, son of Troy W. White, also captured the individual performance trophy when he scored 15 points. He was first in the broad jump, second in the low hurdles, third in the high hurdles, fourth in the 220-yard dash, and fifth in the 100-yard dash. He won four firsts in the league meet last year to establish a record which still stands.

MIAMI WINS MEET

Miami won the meet at Delaware with 86 1-5 points, Ohio university was second with 77 1-5, Wesleyan was third with 28 1-5, Marshall was fourth with 17 1-5, and Cincinnati was last with 16 1-5.

Other records were established in the pole vault, shot put, discus, javelin and 440-yard dash.

Trego, red-thatched member of that well known Commercial Point family, broke a record in the Ohio conference meet that has existed for 23 years when he took the running broad jump in 23 feet 4 1-8 inches. This is almost five inches farther than the Buckeye conference record gained by Howard White.

Trego's winning leap was the only first place Capital could win Wooster's surprise team taking the meet with 47 points. Mount Union and Oberlin were tied for second with the other teams finishing in the following order, Denison, Toledo, Muskingum, Hiram, Akron, Case, Heidelberg, Bowling Green, Capital, and Otterbein.

HELD BY BUCKEYE

The Scioto-twp youth's record was formerly held by Clement Cooke who made it in 1911 while performing for Ohio State, three years before the Buckeyes entered the Western conference.

Trego also tied for fifth in the high jump.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

PUD OLIVER'S SPEED BALL IS NO MORE!

The youth who loves his recreation ball above anything else has been counted out by the Great Empire whose decision is always final. How it happened left Pud's scores of friends stunned. He seemed in good health; he was certainly in fine spirit for his team was out to a lead, and he was in good form.

Then all of a sudden a thrown ball thudding against his body, and that was the end. Several knowing persons looked at him as he lay prone on the ground back of second base. They feared for the worst; others would not believe it. Then came word back from the hospital that Pud was dead; the crowd that had gone to the ball field to see him pitch paused in consternation; it was too much. Some of his teammates were seen to drop tears.

Pud Oliver was a ball player's ball player. He loved the game; he delighted in tossing his fast ball past a bat and into the waiting hands of his catcher. Pud was one of the first good pitchers the sport ever had locally. He pitched first for the Motor Transport team, then he joined the Gordon Tires and pitched that team to a title. Last year he divided pitching duties with Eddie Callahan to make the Walisa Sluggers a strong aggregation; and this year on promise of work, which he sought but had difficulty in finding, he joined the Container Corporation team and had that club on the road toward a championship.

Pud had just singled sharply to left field, something else he loved to do. The youth was never much of a hitter but he loved to bat, and when he did connect he was tickled; a broad grin was always on his countenance when he ran to his base after a safe hit.

We remember distinctly what might have been the happiest moment of Pud Oliver's all-too-brief life. It was at the Pickaway Power plant three years ago. Pud's pal, Evra Trimmer, had just hit a home run into a corn field and Pud not to be outdone hit one into the same spot. He often liked to talk of this.

Some have asked, "Will Oliver's death break up the league?" We believe not. The accident is the first of its kind in the league's six-year history. And above all Pud would want the league to go on.

Ashville News

Supt. Goodchild of the Pickaway-co Children's home was a business visitor at Ashville, Friday.

A male quartette comprised of Fred J. Hines, C. B. Baum, W. A. Baum, W. A. Bowers and Ben Vause, furnished music at the funeral services of Mrs. Edward Kuhlwein at Lockbourne, Saturday afternoon.

TAKE NEW HOME.

Francis T. Bowne and family, who have occupied the Walter Steele property on Powell-st for the past several years, have rented the Faxon Carey farm in Walnut-twp, east of the Walnut school building, to which place they removed last Saturday. Prof. Bowne is agriculture instructor at the Walnut school, which position he has held for the past four years.

Mrs. Charles Smith, residing on the county line road south of Marcy, has been brought to the home of her sister, Mrs. William Wyan, on N. Long-st, from a Columbus hospital, where she recently underwent a serious operation. Her condition is not favorable at this time.

ACTIVE IN POLITICS

Mrs. James Davidson, of Circleville, Democratic candidate for the nomination of county recorder, was looking after her political fences at Ashville, Wednesday.

The death of John Bentley Robbins, 55, at the county home Saturday, brings to the minds of some of our older residents that more than fifty years ago "Ben" Robbins conducted a mercantile business in Ashville, on Main-st, in or near the present location of the Kroger store. Then Ashville's boundaries were restricted and we were a two-street hamlet, while today we are spread out over the area of a fair sized farm. He will be remembered as one of those jovial, big-hearted, good-natured individuals whom everyone delights to meet. Generous to a fault everyone was his friend.

MRS. WESTENHAVER DIES

Mrs. Elmira Westenhaver, aged 90, who left Ashville some twenty years ago to make her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hale, at Piqua, died there this week after several months illness, the result of a fall. During her residence in this village, she owned and lived in the property on Long-st, now occupied by O. H. Riegel and family. The body was brought to Lockbourne Thursday afternoon and interred in beautiful Fernwood cemetery. Among those who attended the burial from Ashville were Mrs. Ketorah Nothstine, Mrs. Minnie Snyder, Mrs. G. D. Griffith, S. L. and Mrs. Smith, O. P. Ward and Claude Hughes.

The burial of Mrs. Chapman at South Bloomfield cemetery, Thursday, recalls to mind that the deceased at one time was an Ashville citizen residing here with her brother, John Roosa, now of Columbus, once a partner in a tin shop with the late W. C. Crites, on Main-st. The Crites family will be remembered by many, the widow and a daughter now living in Louisville, Ky.

DR. SEXAUER LEAVES

Dr. R. A. Sexauer, who has conducted dental parlors on E. Main-st, for the past year, has returned to Lancaster, his former home, where he will practice his profession.

Greet Louisiana's New Member

One of the most controversial chapters in Louisiana political history closes as J. Y. Sanders (right) is congratulated by Speaker Henry T. Rainey after the former had been seated in the House of Representatives as Representative of the Sixth Louisiana District. Two previous elections were ruled illegal. Center, Rep. Wilson. Of Louisiana.

his office, announced the "resignation" of Abbott.

But that did not end the matter.

A little later Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was called to the Treasury. His instructions were specific.

Every Internal Revenue office in the country was to be quickly checked up for similar activities, and prompt reports submitted.

The same peremptory punishment meted out to Abbott is ready for any other Collector who comes under suspicion.

Herat J. Abbott, Collector-in-charge of Michigan, was summoned forthwith to Washington. For three hours Abbott and Secretary Morgenthau were closeted behind locked doors.

Morgenthau then hurried over to the White House. Twenty minutes later he emerged from a talk with the President, went into

LERROY OLIVER DIES OF BLOW OVER HEART

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Irregularity Operating Newark Army Base May Be Aired Soon

WASHINGTON—An army scandal about which the public has heard little is ready to pop soon from the hands of South Carolina's Angus McSwain, tireless chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee.

Without saying much about it, McSwain has been plugging away at an investigation of the Newark (N. J.) Army Base leased to the Mersur Corporation on a cost-plus basis. The Government was supposed to get the major profits after the company had paid expenses, but it somehow happened that the expenses ran up so high that profits were almost nil.

McSwain has now dug up evidence showing where some of the revenue went. A group of Army officers supervising the lease charged the "expense" such things as World's Series baseball games, extra tickets and airplane junkets. In one case World's Series tickets cost $500. The total bill which the Government unwittingly footed was $10,000.

Incidentally, McSwain's investigation cost only about $400,000 for which he thinks he will recover about $135,000 for the government.

Artist President

Artists who see a chance for personal publicity have attempted to make a field day of the special Mother's Day stamp issue by Postmaster-General Jim Farley.

They say it lacks artistry, each new painter adding his word in order to get his name in the papers. But what they don't know is this:

Postmaster-General Farley and his department aides, whom they blame for the stamp, were not responsible for it at all. Farley conceived the idea, had some of his stamp artists work on a drawing for it, but they couldn't seem to get anything that would click. No one could think of a picture that was appropriate, so they took it over to the President. He grinned, took the drawing-board and the partially completed drawing and said:

"Pshaw! That's easy."

And there, with a pencil, he drew it from memory the complete figure of Whistler's Mother.

You didn't know the President was an artist. Neither did Jim Farley or the rest of the amazed aides standing around. But the original of the Mother's Day stamp, on which he displayed his talents, proved him to be so.

Family Trouble

Not all the Blue Eagle's critics are by any means outside its organization. There is much muttering going on within the family circle.

Particularly are the younger executives disgruntled. Chief among their grievances is the complaint that the NRA is loaded down with so much pettifoggery red-tape that they are unable to get to General Johnson directly.

Intimation of this feeling reached the explosive ex-cavalryman recently, and he moved to bring the matter into the open.

He summoned a staff meeting of administrators, and other executives in his office. When they assembled, he gave them a typical Johnsonian stare and barked:

"I'm told that some of you are bellyaching that you can't get to me. Speak up! I'm here to see you. Dead silence. Not a word from anyone."

There were plenty there who had shuffled up and down the corridor in front of his office protesting their inability to get in. But Johnson's top-sergent tactics awed them.

The General snorted in disgust. "Now get this," he said, stabbing at the crowded room with his forefinger. "I'm here to see anybody on anything. Anything any of you have anything to say

FLYERS LAND AT BENNETT FIELD

LONG DISTANCE TRIP ENDS AT BENNETT FIELD

Motor Trouble After Atlantic Trip Causes Frenchmen to Quit

CALIFORNIA GOAL

Fought Fog Banks Off New England Thru Day

NEW YORK, May 28.—Defeated in their plans for a record breaking non-stop flight to California, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, French airmen, arrived here this afternoon from Paris.

They landed their five year old monoplane, "Joseph LeBrix" at Floyd Bennett airport at 1:40 p. m. eastern standard time.

Mechanical difficulties arising after they had successfully bridged the ocean—the fifth such flight from east to west—prevented Codos and Rossi from carrying out their plans to set a new distance record by proceeding non-stop to San Diego, Calif., a span of 6,100 miles.

HELD RECORD

In spite of their failure to better their present long distance non-stop record, which Codos and Rossi themselves established in a flight from New York to Rayak, Syria, they achieved what was done only once before—a flight without a stop from Paris to New York.

Attempting to establish a new world's long distance flying record, Codos and Rossi had San Diego, California, as their destination, a point 6,200 miles from Paris.

From New York the Frenchmen expected to proceed across the United States over the most direct route, flying just north of Dayton, O., Indianapolis, and St. Louis, and then southwesterly over the Trans-Continental and Western Air line route. This would take them over Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona to San Diego.

THERE TUESDAY NOON

If all went well, they would have reached their California destination by noon tomorrow.

LOGAN-CO TOWN HIT BY FLAMES

BELLE CENTER, May 28.—Investigation was being conducted here today to determine the cause of a fire which swept nine store-rooms owned by Levi Welch yesterday and resulted in damages estimated at $75,000.

The fire broke out about 10 a. m. yesterday and quickly spread beyond control of Belle Center fire-fighters who were handicapped by a low water supply. Firemen from Bellefontaine, Lakeview and Huntsville were called to aid in bringing the conflagration under control.

Among the establishments razed by the fire were the Belle Center postoffice, a general store, a restaurant, three barber shops, the American Legion Hall and the K. of P. lodge rooms.

POPPY DAY SALE AMOUNTS TO $115.25

Receipts of the Poppy sale conducted Saturday by the Auxiliary of Howard Hall post, American Legion, totalled $115.25, it was announced Monday. The sale was the greatest success of any in the last several years.

Sale of poppies brought $99.92 while The Herald presented $15.33 to the fund from the sale of a page of advertising concerning Poppy day.

The prizes for the sale of poppies went to Bobby Betts with James Elmore, Denman second among Boy Scouts, while Gail Daughauer led the Girl Scouts with Betty Bach second.

CHURCH IS CROWDED FOR MEMORIAL RITE

Memorial church service held at St. Philip's Episcopal church, Sunday morning, was attended by a large number of legionnaires, auxiliary members and members of other patriotic organizations.

Rev. L. C. Sherburne delivered a splendid sermon for the occasion.

MASSIE SUIT TRIAL OPENS

Many Attorneys in Case; Clifton-Fritz Defendants In $25,000 Action.

With a number of attorneys having leading parts in the case, trial of the suit of Willard Massie, fronton, against Elmer E. Clifton, this city, and J. E. Fritz, Portsmouth, was started before Judge J. W. Adkins Monday morning. Massie seeks $25,000 for the death of his wife who died after a several-car automobile crash north of this city.

Attorneys include Rom Johnson, Don Hopkins, and C. A. Leist for Massie, Charles Gehardt, and Paul Gingham for Clifton, and Byron E. Ford of Vorys, Seymore, Sater, and Pease representing Fritz.

The Voir dire system was being used to obtain the jury during the early court session.

Witnesses include Charles W. Hegler, Orville Ward and Dr. E. R. Bales for Massie, Arley Hartley and Abe Greenlee for Clifton and Bryan Custer, William Caldwell, John Fosnaugh and Sam Caldwell for Fritz.

The jury was completed, opening statements made and the jurors were taken to the scene of the fatal wreck before the noon recess.

They returned at 1:30 p. m. to resume deliberations.

Members of the jury are Percy May, Frank Brown, William Reid, Orrin Updyke, E. E. Dountz, L. T. Dickinson, George Steely, Late Landman, John Claridge, Mrs. Laura Bentley, Marvin Rhoades, and Mrs. Anna Thornton.

RILEY ASKS $5,000

John Riley, of Chillicothe, formerly of this city, filed an answer and cross petition in common pleas court, Monday, against the $50,000 damage action of Dr. L. Lenard Levin, of Lorain. Riley in his cross petition asks $5,000 personal damages.

He also filed an answer denying allegations of Mrs. Levin who sued for $5,000.

Riley bases his cross petition on a city ordinance against excessive speed and overloading automobiles. Levin's action followed a wreck on S. Court-st.

Adkins and Atkins and William D. Radcliff represent Riley.

WHITE BLAMES 'OUTSIDERS' IN TOLEDO STRIFE

"State Will Not Compromise With Element," Governor Declares

FEAR NEW STRIKES

Inquest Held as Two Slain Men Are Buried

COLUMBUS, May 28.—While expressing the belief that the strike conditions at Toledo are rounding into such shape as will permit the withdrawal of national guard troops at an early date, Governor George White today served warning that the state "will not compromise" with these elements "that have seized upon the labor trouble as a pretext to further their own propaganda and violent intentions."

Laying full blame for the bloody riots at Toledo upon the shoulders of outside influences, the governor asserted that had the dispute been confined to legitimate strikers, "no state action would have been necessary."

CITES PROPAGANDA

Placing the responsibility for the strike riots, Governor White declared that "persons who hold the law in utter disregard and who do not have the interests of America at heart, have seized upon the labor trouble as a pretext to further their own propaganda and violent intentions."

Temporary peace prevailed over the riot scarred zone of the Electric Auto Lite Co., Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for the American Civil Liberties union, arrived in Toledo today from New York and immediately went into conference with strike leaders.

Tension meanwhile gripped the strike zone where in the past five days two persons have been killed and many injured. Nearly 1000 national guardsmen patrolled the district, armed to the teeth and ready for any emergency.

Talk of a general strike was in the air.

89 VOTE STRIKE

Otto Brach, secretary of the Toledo Central Labor Union, said that 89 of the 103 local unions already have voted favorably on a general strike.

Action was being held in check, however by the peace negotiations instituted by Charles P. Tatt, head of the Federal Mediation board, in his efforts to bring the executive committee of the strikers and officials of the company together for the purpose of settling the trouble.

The tension in Toledo was accentuated by the funerals this morning of the two victims of the rioting, Frank Hubay, 27, and Steve (Continued on Page Five)

DUNKIRK GROCER, 62, KILLED BY GUNMAN

KENTON, May 28.—Police today were looking for a quick-trigger hold-up man who shot and fatally wounded L. W. Bean, 62-year-old Dunkirk grocer early yesterday morning.

The highwayman shot his victim in the abdomen after Bean had drawn a revolver and fired into the air in an attempt to scare his assailant. Bean died in a hospital here several hours later.

The robber fled without obtaining any loot. Bean was carrying more than $100 at the time he was accosted by the holdup man.

FRANK GORDON PASSES AWAY

Former Superintendent of Forest Cemetery Expires At Home Sunday.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating, for Frank S. Gordon, aged 72, former superintendent of Forest cemetery, who died at his home, 434 E. Franklin-st., Sunday at 10 p. m.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery by C. E. Hill, Williamsport.

Mr. Gordon's death was caused by complications. He had suffered from asthma for several years.

The deceased was born in New Holland Jan. 7, 1862, a son of Ransom and Sarah Bowdler Gordon.

He was twice married, first to Lillie Eyck, who preceded him in death, and Julia Cook, who survives him.

Mr. Gordon was a member of Trinity Lutheran church and of the Lutheran Brotherhood. He was a director of the Forest cemetery association at the time of his death.

3 DIE IN CRASH

SELINGSGROVE, Pa., May 28.—An airplane pleasure ride that ended in tragedy left in its wake today three charred victims.

They were: Allen J. Snyder, 28, pilot of the plane and athletic coach at Middleburg high school, and two of his star athletes, Carl E. Walters, 17, son of Mrs. Verna Walters, of Middleburg, and George A. Erdley, Jr., 17, son of Former State Representative and Mrs. George A. Erdley, of Globe Mills.

BARGAIN MAY BE AN OVERWORK-ED WORD

But it so truly describes the many offers found in the Used Car columns today that we can't refrain from using it again.

The offers found in this group of items often surprise those reading them for the first time. Because the prospective buyer finds practically every make and model of car represented and every one is priced to make the purchase seem like an investment.

Today this statement is exceptionally true. A larger number of bargains are being offered today than usually appear. Turn to them now for a lesson in economical buying.

HIDES WORTH $2,200 LOST

Truck Enroute To Cincinnati With 1,000 Cow-Hides Destroyed By Fire.

Cow hides valued at $2,200 were destroyed Saturday afternoon when the truck driven by Otis Herron and James Bishop, Cincinnati, caught fire on the Lancaster-pk near the Turney Leist residence.

The truck was completely burned by the flames. There were 1,000 hides in the load.

The men in the truck were unaware it was on fire until a passing motorist told them. Both jumped from the cab while the truck was traveling at 25 miles an hour. One suffered minor injuries.

The truck struck a culvert and stopped, and in only a moment was enveloped in flames.

The men were driving toward Cincinnati from Pittsburgh.

The fire department was called to W. Mound-st. at 5:10 p. m. Saturday when the fire had spread to the Charles Street market for a delivery truck enroute on the highway.

WRECKS KILL SIX

By International News Service

Automobile crash, which took the lives of at least six persons, headed the list of tragic accidents ending in fatalities in Ohio over the week-end, a check-up by International News Service disclosed today.

Drowning, accident and a train-killing accounted for five more deaths, bringing the total week-end death toll to at least eleven persons.

Two Miami university students were killed and two others injured when their automobile crashed into a ditch five miles north of Oxford, Mark Evans, 19, Cleveland, and Robert W. Perry, 19, Greenburg, Ind., died of broken necks. William Ryans, 20, Akron; Martin A. Coyle, 18, Hamilton, and Earl Gibbs, 19, Blanchester received minor injuries in the accident.

JAIL YOUTH IN KIDNAP PLOT

Threat Involves Maureen O'Sullivan, Irish Actress, Police Assert.

HOLLYWOOD, May 28.—Writing a swift finale to an alleged kidnapping plot directed against Maureen O'Sullivan, dark eyed Irish film actress, detectives today arrested Colum McCannister, 24, and booked him on investigation of suspicion of extortion.

McCannister said that he recently had arrived here from St. Louis.

He admitted, detectives said, he had informed Miss O'Sullivan she was to be kidnapped in the hope that she would reward him for the information.

The actress yesterday was approached and told:

"I happen to know that you are going to be kidnapped. Be careful."

She promptly reported the incident to Hollywood police.

CHANDLER FIGHTS OFFICER, JAILED

Auto Thief Ordered Arrested As Parole Violator Puts Up Fight, Sunday.

Ted Chandler, 27, paroled from the Ohio penitentiary where he served time for stealing the automobile of Max Friedman, E. Mill-st., will be returned to the institution following his arrest, early Sunday.

Chandler was ordered arrested as a parole violator by his parole officer.

Local officers went to the home of his sister in the north end after midnight Saturday and found him there. Chandler played drunk and after a few minutes in custody bolted for freedom. Officer William McCrady started after him and caught him when Chandler fell down in the street, bruising his head.

The fugitive and the officer tangled for a moment until Sheriff Charles Radcliff arrived, and the man was overpowered.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell and Officer Fred Fitzpatrick also took part in the arrest.

RUNNING TO SECOND

The fatal accident happened at the height of the game in the last half of the third inning with Oliver's Container Corporation team leading the Columbus Golco. Off Co. nine 1 to 0. Oliver had started the inning with a safe hit to left field. The next batter hit a ground ball to third base where Elmer Zang, prominent St. Mary's high school and University of Dayton athlete, was playing.

Zang picked up the bounding ball and threw it toward second base to force Oliver at that base. The throw was bad and struck Oliver over the heart. Oliver reached the base. The ball could be heard on the W. J. st. bank.

The ball bounded into left field and the ill-fated youth overran the bag, some claim, then returning to the base where he stood possibly two or three seconds before he collapsed. Some believe he was dead when he struck the ground.

Columbus players, who seemed cool under the circumstances, tried to return him to consciousness, believing his breath had been knocked out when he was hit. In a short time Dr. Lloyd Jones was called and a paramotor was brought to the field from the electric company plant.

The Albaugh Co. ambulance then arrived and the youth was taken to Berger hospital. Two Columbus players rode in the ambulance with him still trying to restore consciousness. He was pronounced dead as soon as he was taken into the hospital.

HEART PARALYZED

It is believed Oliver's heart was not strong although he had passed an examination to enter the Ohio National guard motor transport unit. He had also undergone a rigid examination in an effort to qualify for a position at the Container Corporation plant. The result of this examination has not been officially determined since examination papers were sent to the main office of the Container Corporation in Chicago and so far as was determined today, had not yet been returned.

Dr. Jones, who examined him at the field, said Monday that the blow apparently paralyzed his heart, causing death. The shock of the blow and the excitement of the ball game might have been contributory factors.

Elmer Zang, the youth who threw the fatal ball, was deeply touched by the fatal accident. He and other members of the team this team offered to do what they could. They also offered to play a benefit ball game for Oliver's widowed mother at any time it is desirable.

The crowd watching the game was stunned by the turn of events. What started as an interesting

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

WOMEN like to get compliments. I reckon every love-lorn department and advice to husbands column has told you that. But that ain't all. They're bound to get compliments. If a woman's husband won't say nice things to her, why she'll generally manage to make somebody say them.

But there was a woman that was so hungry for a compliment that she just naturally stole one from her husband. He was saying all sorts of wise things in company, and telling about what was the cause of this and that. So finally he says, "It's notorious that dumb men grab off all the prettiest women."

His wife blushed real prettily and said, "Why, you old flatterer, you are always saying nice things about me this way."

Where Does Your Advertising Go—To Buyers or To Ash Cans?

You give Air Mail Special Delivery preference over all other mail, not because of the "carrier investment" involved, for you, the recipient, pay nothing for it, but because its manner of delivery has convinced you of the importance of its contents.

You know that the sender of the message has gone to greater expense than ordinary mail requires. It has your immediate reader-attention. The same as advertising in the newspaper is given preference over all forms of ordinary printed matter. It convinces people who make worthwhile customers that YOU, as the merchant, believe sufficiently in your goods and service to select the medium preferred by everyone.

And it is doubtful if many Pickaway County prospects ever call to complain to a merchant that they didn't get one of his store's lovely circulars. For they want their advertising messages where the "best stores" are advertised—in the newspaper! And not on an uninteresting piece of paper stuck in doors of automobiles, thrown on lawns and generously handed to every passer-by just because they are "cheap."

6-POINT PLAN IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 28.—A six-point major legislative program was laid down by administration leaders today in the hope of adjourning congress by June 9.

The program consisted of the president's reciprocal tariff bill, new silver remonetization bill, the Wagner labor disputes bill, the new stock market measure, the administration's loans to industry bill and the billion-dollar relief appropriation. All other measures, if controversial, apparently will be abandoned.

The leaders indicated the president desires congress to adjourn before the foreign debt installments fall due June 15. With all the house and a third of the senate facing elections this fall, most of the members also want to go home.

The new tariff act, giving the president power to slash import duties as an incentive to the negotiation of trade expansion agreements with foreign governments, was scheduled to pass the senate this week.

The new silver bill is next on the program. It has the president's endorsement and will start through the house this week.

The Wagner labor dispute bill has the almost unanimous approval of the senate commerce committee.

The stock market bill was in final form after senate and house conferees agreed on a compromise. The conference report will be adopted this week by both house and senate, as the final step in its enactment. The bill would create an independent commission to regulate the various securities exchanges throughout the country.

Sunday School Program Good

P 2 ASHVILLE

ASHVILLE, May 28.—The annual Harrison-two school convention was held in the Asheville U. B. church Sunday evening, and was fairly well attended.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: President Harry Speakman, superintendent South Bloomfield Sunday school; vice president, C. C. Cloud and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Grace Reid.

Wayne Jinks, superintendent of the Asheville U. B. school, president of the association opened the meeting and the U. B. orchestra rendered several appropriate selections followed by a hymn by the congregation.

In the absence of Rev. Paul Scott, South Bloomfield pastor, Rev. T. H. Ricketts had charge of the devotional period which consisted of scripture reading with interesting and wholesome comment.

A duet by two ladies of the South Bloomfield school, with piano accompaniment was well received.

An address "The Youth's Need" by H. W. Plum of Circleville, struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all listeners. The speaker primarily stressed the need of a church program that would appeal to and interest the young. He considers music as one of the main features. Organize a large choir and orchestra if possible and you will have a magnet that will draw and hold the youngsters. Once you enlist them the church's duty is to guard their interests carefully and advance them step by step into places of responsibility.

The Asheville M. E. choir rendered a very beautiful and appropriate selection, after which the offering was taken.

The main speaker of the evening was J. E. Newell, of Columbus, a school superintendent in the Hilltop district in the Capitol City. His remarks were along educational as well as religious activities. As a teacher he is faced many times with conditions regarding pupils which should have been corrected by parents years ago. Quoting a learned Chicago educator, he said "We Have Learned Nothing until Our Behavior is Changed." If you are a professed religious worker and have a Sunday code of action that does not chime in with your week day program your influence will not be far reaching. The young are close observers; and expect us to practice what we preach. The address was just the kind to arouse church workers to renewed action.

Rearming in the Air

GLANCE at export figures relating to the exportation of airplanes and airplane parts made available in Washington leaves little doubt of the truthfulness of the charge that Germany is re-arming in the air.

The figures are contained in the monthly reports of the department of commerce. According to these, during January, 1933, shortly before Hitler came into power, the value of American airplane engines exported to Germany was $1,600. Parts and accessories totaling $10,943 in value also were sent over. For the same month just one year later, American manufacturers shipped 37 airplane engines, valued at $189,488, to Germany. In February of this year German purchases of engines here totaled 38, valued at $184,942. Figures for March, the latest available, showed 47 engines exported their value being $249,480.

German purchases during the first quarter of this year were greater than those of any other country. Russia stood second, its purchases totaling about one-third in value, of those made by Germany.

Germany is not dependent upon foreign countries for airplanes. It has a flourishing air industry itself, and it is to be supposed that its own plants have been turning out large numbers of machines for the government. Large purchases also have been made in England, these being the subject of a protest recently lodged in London by Paris.

The situation, no doubt, will be used by France to strengthen its reasons for refusing to give its consent to the rearming of Germany and as justifying its own military expenditures.

It all four sit in the driver's seat, that's friendship. If two prefer the rumble, that's love.

Dealing With the Public

GENERAL Johnson apparently has learned that censorship doesn't pay.

The recovery administrator has revoked orders which prohibited division administrators from dealing directly with the press. Instead of newspapers being dependent upon the administration's publicity bureau for official news relating to recovery affairs, information in the future will be available to them in divisional offices.

The new orders undoubtedly will prove beneficial to the recovery administration. They at least will serve to free it of the suspicion, caused by the censorship that important news was being withheld from the public.

The people at large are the ones vitally affected by the work of this branch of the government. They believe they are entitled to and should have full information concerning its policies and activities.

The three metals you can take to Washington and turn into cash are gold, silver and brass.

The one objection to being regarded as a great thinker is that you have to be dead too long.

A philanthropist is one whose generosity is praised because he left what he couldn't take with him.

While planning to let millions of men work for the government, we should be careful not to omit the word "for."

When the government quits coining gold, you can get it only in bars. But being rich only in bars isn't anything new.

General Johnson soon may have to call on that California scientist, who brought dead dog back to life, to work on his pet bird, the Blue Eagle.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

"I was sure I was done with love, I thought when Drew left me that I could never feel anything again. That something in me had been killed, completely destroyed. Yet, just a few months later I found this wasn't so. I found I still could love—so I married John Harmon. Now, I feel that I have put Drew completely out of my life, that he could never mean anything to me again. But am I right, Perry? I don't know. I don't believe I want to know. It might be too devastating. If I ever felt that way about Drew Armistage again, Perry, I should hate myself, hate myself so utterly that I don't believe I could go on living!"

"You're very young, Stanley, and you think about things too much. Let them get too close to you. Don't do it, my dear. What happened to you was really very simple; it's only in your own precious little analytical mind that it becomes so important. Try to look at it like this, Stanley—you met Drew and fell in love with him. You'd never been in love before—Drew is essentially the erotic type. It's nothing he's to blame for exactly, nothing he can help. Elinor Glyn would call it 'it' and Aldous Huxley would call it something still different. But call it what you like, there it is. What happened to you has happened to thousands of other girls—sometimes they marry the man and more often they don't. I rather imagine that more often they do exactly what you have done—marry someone quite different. And then they do what you, obviously, haven't done—they forget about it. Or if they remember, they don't let it hurt them. You mustn't, Stanley. It isn't fair to your husband."

Stanley stared at him in the firelight, her eyes gravely intent on what he was saying to her, slightly puzzled. When she spoke it was of him rather than of what he had just said, "You've changed, Perry, grown up, some way. It suits you, I think. I like you very much this way."

Perry shrugged. "I hope you liked what I just said to you—and will remember it."

"I will, Perry. I know you're right. But that way, it sounds very simple. I almost wish I had let you come before. I suppose I have been rather a fool to refuse to face things. You'll come often, won't you, Perry?"

"As often as you'll let me. But it mustn't stop there—you must promise to go about again, to stop hiding away here by yourself."

"But we haven't much money, you know. We'll have to live quietly for a while, anyhow."

"Well, at any rate, you'll let me return your hospitality, won't you? And if I drink tea here every other day—that's four times a week—" see I've always been a little, and at times a lot, in love with your wife. I suppose I still am."

"Yes, I know," John Harmon answered him quickly, running his fingers through his rumpled, brown hair, meeting the other's smile directly with his intent, eager brown eyes. "It's very easy to love Stanley—it would be very hard not to, don't you think? I hope you'll come here often. I'm afraid we need friends rather badly."

"What we really need," interrupted Stanley, "is a cup of tea. And now that you have fully agreed to like each other and love me, I don't see why we shouldn't have it!"

Both men laughed and John Harmon brought the kettle of boiling water and Stanley poured it over the tea in the pewter teapot. An hour later, they were still sitting there—the muffins and honey had disappeared, the teacups were empty, the fire had burned low—but there were still cigarettes and candlelight and much to talk about.

Then Perry remembered a dinner engagement and sprang up hastily. "But I'm coming back and I'm going to bring Nigel Stern. You mustn't mind, do you Stanley? He could help John no end—knows all about the literary game—and has a particular penchant for authors."

"No, I don't mind—I like him," Stanley said. "Say Thursday, then?"

"By all means, and it's been great having you here, Deverest!" John Harmon was honestly enthusiastic. "It's been great being here! Until Thursday then—"

John Harmon closed the door and turned back to Stanley. "He's a splendid fellow, Stan. It's going to be fun—knowing him."

"I'm glad you liked him, dear," Stanley said. "It's not only that I like him, he's going to mean a lot to me."

"I hope so, John Harmon," Stanley said. "You did it for me, didn't you, Stanley?"

"Yes," Stanley said. "Did you mind—so very much?"

"No."

done, but of you, for you are nice, you know. People like you just as well as they do your stories. If you weren't beyond that sort of thing, I'd be afraid they'd spoil you. I couldn't bear that!"

John Harmon threw back his head and laughed. "You're imagining things, Stanley. They're just decent and friendly and they give you a damn good time—don't they, Deverest?"

"Yes," admitted Stanley giving her nose a careful touch of powder. "Yes, it's been fun stepping out again—but I'm not sure I like sharing you so much. We're never at home any more, except when you're working. I miss our—good times together."

John Harmon laid down a hairbrush abruptly. His voice when he answered was steady and curiously vibrating. "Say the word and I'll telephone Nigel we can't be there tonight, or we won't bother to telephone—he'll never miss us. We'll stay home and talk. I want to read you that last chapter, anyway—what do you say, shall we?"

"Of course not, stupid!" Stanley reached for a nail buffer. "Nigel would miss you and you know you'd miss him—you'll get at least a thousand words out of one evening with him. But it's sweet of you to offer and I know you really mean it, that's what matters."

"Why shouldn't I mean it? I got a lot of kick out of those people, a lot of ideas and atmosphere; but aside from Perry they don't mean a thing to me, while you, Deverest—"

He came across to her and laid his arms about her shoulders, laid his face lightly against hers, "I can't tell you what you mean to me, Stanley, I'm not even going to try."

"Don't," answered Stanley softly. "And let's go quickly, before we change our minds."

They found a rather larger crowd than usual at Nigel's. Perry was there, of course, and several of Stanley's old friends, who had accepted her return as casually as they had accepted her disappearance. Marcia Wingate was there and she waylaid Stanley early in the evening.

"I don't see how you have the nerve to accept all of Nigel's invitations and refuse all of mine. I think it's downright rude of you."

"The truth is, Marcia," Stanley told her frankly, "you're too high hat for us. We can come here in ordinary clothes because nobody cares, but a party at your house would be quite different. My husband's an author you know, and a very, very new one."

"But a very, very clever one and so altogether charming. That shy, confused manner of his is perfectly delightful, and utterly unexpected. From his stories, one would expect to find him sophisticated and clever and frightfully self-possessed."

"I know," Stanley nodded gravely. "Isn't it funny? He writes exactly as you'd expect Nigel to write—if he wrote."

"Exactly. And all that about clothes is rubbish. I'll never stop asking you until you come."

"Have it your own way, Marcia. We'll love to come, when we can afford you!"

"Gingivitis" A Common Disorder

Authority Gives Some Facts About This
Gum Inflammation

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

EVERYONE IS familiar with the common name of Vincent's Angina. It is known to the public as "trench mouth". Health journals, magazines and newspapers have stressed the dangers of this disease. On the other hand, too little attention has been given to a simple inflammation of the gums known as "gingivitis".

Gingivitis is a rather common disorder. Usually, it can be traced to a failure to practice mouth hygiene. Continued neglect of gingivitis leads to serious infections and perhaps to chronic constitutional disorders. The disease is accompanied by swollen and painful gums. At times, the pain may be so severe as to prevent needed sleep and rest. The gums are sensitive and bleed upon the slightest provocation. They bleed when the teeth are brushed.

"Halitosis," or bad breath, is indeed a disagreeable and repulsive condition. Those who suffer from it are anxious to get rid of the offensive breath, yet they often overlook gingivitis as the most probable cause. Bad breath, headache, digestive disturbances and various nervous symptoms can be traced to this unpleasant ailment.

Bear in mind that many germs are all the time found in the mouth and throat. Neglect of mouth hygiene leads to infection with these germs and absorption of poisonous substances. Permanent disabilities, such as neuritis, arthritis and neuralgia, are often traced to such infections of the mouth and throat.

Gingivitis is frequently seen in individuals who have poor health. It is commonly found in persons canceling from serious disease. The lowered resistance prepares the way for the germs.

Daily care of the teeth and periodic visits to the dentist will help to insure strong and healthy gums. Regular brushing of the teeth and careful use of a dental floss will remove food debris, prevent dental decay and inflammation of the gums. Many persons have sensitive gums and are extremely susceptible to tartar formation. They are likely to get gingivitis. These persons, I strongly recommend to make periodic visits to the dentist for special preventive treatment.

I cannot overstate the importance of a well balanced diet. This should contain an abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals, milk, butter, cream and eggs. These foods furnish the elements essential to strong teeth and healthy gums.

Bear in mind that besides a proper diet, an adequate supply of fresh air and sunshine will help prevent gingivitis. No person should ever become afflicted with this infection if he takes the proper precautions.

Answers to Health Queries

M. D. Q.—Of what nature is the disease known as endocarditis?

—This is an inflammation of the valves or lining of the heart.

J. F. M. Q.—I am troubled with cramps in my legs. What can I do for this?

—Cramps are usually due to poor circulation, or undue exertion. Application of heat sometimes proves helpful.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The yearning for adventure that is latent in every human is given a thrilling expression in "Tarzan and His Mate," jungle film continuing the experiences of Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan in Darkest Africa. The new adventure thriller opened yesterday on the Cliftona Theatre.

Almost from the first scene there is a series of "punch" incidents to capture audience interest. Struggles between man and beast on land and in the water are blended into one of the most powerful dramas of conflict ever screened.

Under-Water Thrills

Weissmuller was photographed under water as he fights a crocodile to the death. Herds of elephants are shown charging a safari of several hundred natives. Man-eating lions attack white jungle explorers; herds of apes, Wunderbeeste, zebras and other jungle beasts are shown in action.

AT THE GRAND

Six of Hollywood's ace comedians were cast by Warner Bros. for the rollicking comedy drama, "I've Got Your Number," at the Grand Theatre.

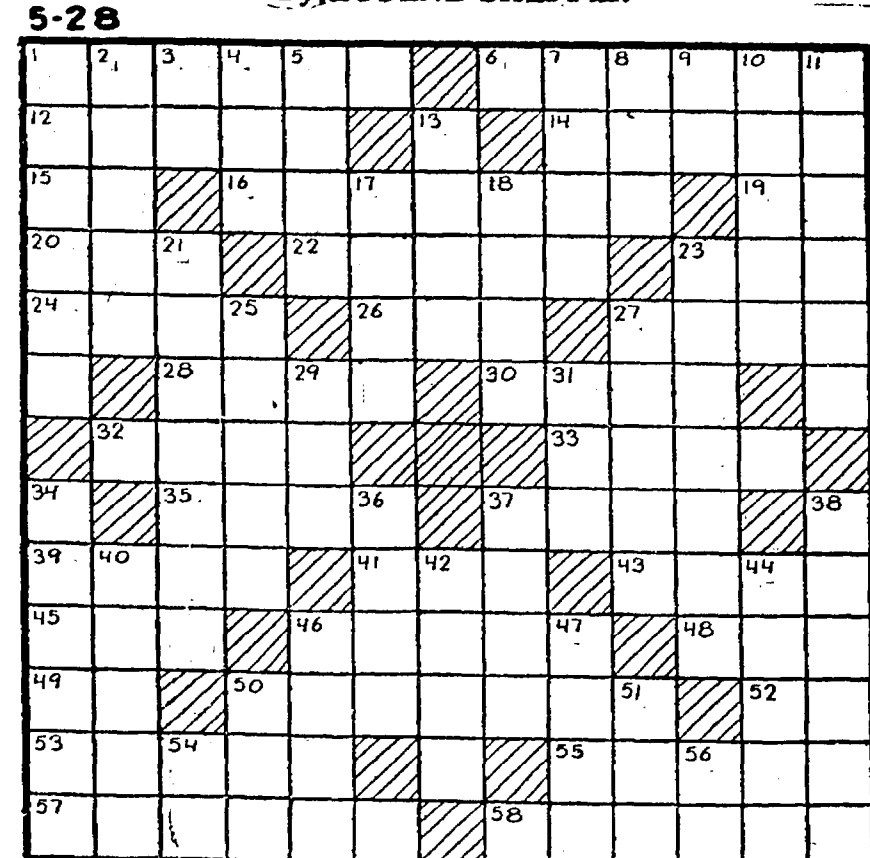

The list is headed by the vivacious Joan Blondell, who kept audience roaring in "Convention City," "Havana Widows," "Footlight Parade," "Lawyer Man," and other productions.

April of 1933 farmers got $4.81 of the consumers' monthly bill of $14.68 for 14 important foods. April of 1934 farmers got $6.41 of the $17.14 spent for the same foods.

March hatchery reports point to a reduction in salable chicks to 8 per cent under 1933 sales.

120 MILLIONS FOR ARMY HELP SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Declaring that the nation must be prepared to meet all foes, Rep. John L. McSwain (D) of South Carolina, chairman of the house military affairs committee, today announced he will seek $120,000,000 from the new public works fund to expand the army.

Most of the money would be spent in building the army air force to a new high point of efficiency. Although congress enacted a law in 1926 providing for 1,800 effective fighting airplanes, the army only has 300 planes ready for combat against a modern foe, he said.

TESTS PROGRAM
His program would include: Construction of seven new army air bases, from which defense of continental United States could be directed.

Building of an adequate reserve supply of munitions for all branches.

Increase of enlisted personnel from 118,750 to 165,000 men.

While McSwain declined to reveal the location of the proposed army corps bases, it is understood that military experts favor three on the Atlantic coast, three on the Pacific and one in Alaska.

"I want to build the air corps to 1,800 effective fighting planes," he said. "We have only about 300 combat or fighting planes the rest are either antiquated, unfit or training planes. When congress enacted the five-year air program it did not intend to include training planes in the 1,800 quota."

The combined army, navy and marine corps air forces, McSwain said, should equal any possible combination of invaders.

The Thompson bill increasing the army to 165,000 men is favored partly as an unemployment relief measure, he said. In addition to 40,000 more enlisted men, 2,000 reserve officers would be called to duty.

COUNTY STUDENTS IN ATHENS RITES

ATHENS, May 28.—To the campus of a university founded 130 years ago by a Yale graduate will come a dean of that institution, and one from its sister school, Harvard, to speak at the June Commencement on the Ohio University campus here June 3, 4 and 5.

The largest graduating class in the history of Ohio University will be its contribution to the celebration marking the 130th year of the school. Dr. Luther Allan Weigel, dean of the Divinity School, Yale University, will deliver the baccalaureate address in Memorial Auditorium Sunday, June 3, and Clinton Poston Biddle, professor of Investment Banking and associate dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University, will present the Commencement address Monday morning. Dean Biddle is an alumnus of Ohio University.

Returning alumni and relatives of the 440 graduates will join in a full round of events Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The group of graduates who are to receive degrees and diplomas upon the completion of satisfactory work this semester includes Helen E. West of Circleville and Freda Mae Matthes and Esther Amelia Winfough of Derby, all of whom are to receive two year diplomas in special education.

Paul Eugene Matthes of Derby, one of Ohio University's outstanding engineering students, will receive the degree of bachelor of science in electrical engineering in June. The Derby senior had a perfect average of 18 hours straight "A" for the first semester this year.

ball game ended in a shocking fatal accident. Groups of fans remained at the field for nearly an hour after word came back from the hospital confirming the report that many feared.

POSTPONE GAMES

Recreation ball league officials announced Monday that in respect to the youth there would be no games in the league until after the funeral Tuesday.

That means the Monday and Tuesday games will be postponed. Leroy E. Oliver was born Aug. 18, 1910, in Frankfort, Ross co., a son of Leonard and Alice Catherine Lytle Oliver. His father expired in 1919. He is survived by his mother, two sisters, Mrs. Roney Schisler and Miss Mary Edith and a brother, Elmer at home.

He was a first duty sergeant in the motor transport branch of the Ohio National guard, having been in that organization for six years. He was also a member of the Improved Order of Red Men who will conduct a service at the grave.

OHIO PROSECUTORS TO STUDY PROBLEM

The prosecuting attorneys for Ohio's eighty-eight counties were invited to attend a conference by Attorney General John W. Bricker on June 4th and 5th at Columbus.

The Attorney General called attention to the many new and peculiar problems presented by the Ohio Industrial Recovery Act and the National Industrial Recovery Act in his letter of invitation. Much of the burden of enforcement is placed directly on the shoulders of the Attorney General and the Prosecuting Attorneys. The purpose of the conference will be to discuss methods of handling these cases and will provide an opportunity for the Attorney General and his assistants, W. Donald Hall and Oscar A. Brown to discuss with the Prosecutors the litigation arising under the Recovery Program.

The Ohio Recovery Administration, through Theodore H. Tamm, Administrator and his Assistant, O. W. L. Coffin, joined General Bricker in his invitation to the Prosecuting Attorneys and will assist in conducting the various conferences. Federal District Attorneys and National Recovery Administration officials have been invited to participate in the belief that the persons charged with Code enforcement should be fully advised as to all the phases of the Recovery Legislation and the litigation which has taken place under it.

Already several code violations have been brought before the Common Pleas courts of Ohio. In every instance the constitutionality of the State and National Recovery Acts has been confirmed. The Ohio Recovery Administration now has on hand a large number of alleged violations which have been referred to it by the various code authorities who have requested court action to be instituted under the State Recovery Act.

A number of violations which had been directed to the National Recovery Administration have been referred back to the Ohio Recovery Administration for prosecution.

KINGSTON

The Scout Troop attended the Court of Review at Adelphi on Monday evening, May 28, 1934.

Miss Josephine Brundage very pleasantly entertained her sewing club on Thursday evening. The guests were, Mrs. J. P. Gardner and her two sisters, Mrs. William Thayer and Mrs. Kitty Cunningham of Columbus, Mrs. Robert Brundage, Mrs. Robert Freshour, Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. W. R. Sinderland and Misses Bernice Miller and Mildred Holderman.

Scout Troop No. 65, very pleasantly surprised James Baker on Saturday evening, at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Baker. This was a farewell party as James left with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Baker for their home in Cincinnati on Sunday. Among the scouts enjoying the pleasant affair were Fred Maag, James and Frank Miller, Tom Ellis, Rayal and Bob Thompson, John and Bob Gearhart, Philip Graubough, Tom Freshour, Elmer Wright, Sonny Baker and others.

All met at the home and then repaired to Dunlap's and enjoyed a weiner roast. Scout Master L. E. Hill and Assistant Scout Master Hubert Hicks attended a camping course which was held in Circleville on Tuesday evening, May 15 at the Presbyterian church and one on Thursday evening, May 22 at St. Paul's church in Chillicothe. Plans were explained for the Scout activities for the summer.

L. F. Hill left on Friday morning to spend the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill near Darbyville.

YOUR ENERGY VARIES DURING THE DAY

There's a "Lift" in CAMELS that drives away Fatigue and Irritability

Feel "all in"? Then's the best time to light a Camel.

It's cool and fragrant and delightful... but far more important than that, it brings your flow of energy up from the depths!

You feel fatigue vanish. Irritability seems to slip away. And you go back to work—or play—with the energy and cheerfulness that are naturally yours.

YOU'VE HAD THE EXPERIENCE...HERE'S THE EXPLANATION!

This experience is no news to Camel smokers. But the explanation is news—and good news—to everyone.

The "lift" you get from smoking Camels is simply a release of the natural latent energy in your body. In other words you have helped your body to help itself... easily, naturally, and without the slightest strain.

Remember this explanation when your energy curve is "down"...times when you're irritable and your brain just doesn't seem to work and you feel too tired to move. At such times... "Get a lift with a Camel!"

AND CAMELS NEVER JANGLE YOUR NERVES!

Camel fans smoke frequently—and they can—as often as they like. Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on the nerves.

Keep your flow of energy at a higher level with Camels.

Camel Smokers can verify these facts!

A famous New York research laboratory announces a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge of cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect"—a quick restoration of the flow of natural body energy—an experience well known to Camel smokers. When you smoke a Camel you feel a definite and mediate relief from fatigue. What has actually happened is that you have released and made available the latent energy in your body. You've helped your body to help itself. During the day your energy curve hits certain low points. Camels raise your flow of energy quickly, conveniently and without jangling your nerves.

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

TOO TIRED FOR WORK...

...then she smoked a Camel!

Camel fans made from the MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOES and Lomax's... any other... lax...
